LOADED FOR POLAR BEARS

Quote by Boyd Warner, owner of Adventure Northwest, in their brochure: This hunt I consider to be the 'toughest hunt' left in North America and likely in the world. Mentally, physically and environmentally, you will be challenged to your limits.

Then in May, hunting with Titus Allooloo and three dog teams out of Pond Inlet, Nick Trenke shoots an exceptional polar bear in a spectacular continuous sequence that will make you forget about the extreme cold and actually consider booking this hunt.

First, Ken Wilson hunts white bear during March by dog team out of Holman with guides Pat Ekpakuhak and Larry Olifie. Ken gets his shot and downs a good bear on the ice between Banks Island and Victoria Island.

Before Nick's hunt, Boyd describes his hunt for Nanuk and the incredible role played by the dog teams and their mushers as Boyd's bear is tracked throughout the night thanks to the mid-night sun.
