

HUNTING SHEEP, GOAT, & MOOSE IN B.C.

Charlie Stricker (left), in his 25th year as a sheep guide and outfitter, "on top of the hill" with Ken Wilson, in his 5th year as a hunter-director-producer of "videos for the hunter."

Featuring "THE SHEEP HUNTER'S SONG" written by Mel Brown and performed by Denny Jones/Paul Kovac.

ALL TROPHIES TAKEN ON-CAMERA

Safari through British Columbia starting with a hunt for Canada Moose in Northern B.C. with Stone Mountain Safaris. Ken Wilson packs into moose country with his guide, Marty Kjos, and they share several campfires before bagging a big Bull.

Then Ken reviews the film of Tom Carmody's successful Stone Sheep hunt with outfitter Gary Moore where Tom picks out the biggest Ram in a group of six and rolls it down a shale mountainside with one shot. Finally, Ken flies into Prince George and travels to the southern end of the Finley Mountains in Central B.C. where he packs in for a Stone Sheep and Mountain Goat hunt with outfitter-guide Charlie Stricker. They hunt Goat, first, and pass up a 10" Nanny before dropping a 9" Billy in a spectacular sequence. Then they backpack for Sheep and look over a lot of Rams before shooting one "on top of the world."
